Self-Advocacy Tips

or

How to get the resources you need

A welfare rights group wrote these tips. They may be helpful in many situations. Please know that there are good people out there who work for many agencies that are very informative and are willing to help you!

1. Be persistent. Don't give up!
2. Make sure you complete and sign an application. Everyone has the right to fill out an application. All denials MUST be in writing.
3. Read all applications and notices carefully and make sure you pay attention to details and dates! Don't wait until the last minute to appeal a denial of benefits.
4. Ask detailed questions about what services are available. Some service providers, particularly state agencies, may not tell you what you are entitled to. Ask lots of questions.
5. DO NOT leave without asking if you are eligible or not. You are entitled to receive written information about what documents you need to provide in order to be eligible to receive benefits.
6. If you are denied benefits or don't get what you think you're entitled to, appeal!!
7. Don't be afraid to file an appeal or ask for a hearing. If appealing for benefits or requesting a fair hearing, you may want to contact your local legal services office for help.
8. Ask to be referred to other resources, particularly if you are denied benefits.
9. If you don't understand, ask someone for help.
10. Everyone has the right to a confidential meeting or private place to discuss your case. You don't have to explain your problem to the receptionist; ask to speak to a caseworker.
11. If you have trouble with a particular worker, you can speak to a supervisor or ask for a different worker.
12. Some service providers will actively try to discourage or disqualify you for benefits that you may need or are in fact entitled to.
13. You may want to bring a friend, relative, or advocate with you when applying for services.
14. Get the names of the people (caseworkers) you talk to. Write down (on a calendar) who you spoke to, why, and the date
15. If you think you are getting inaccurate information, ask to speak to a supervisor.

*Don't leave original documents; ask for copies to be made or bring copies with you. ****

You may be eligible for assistance with heating fuel & non-heat related utility if you or your spouse served in the military or you are the widow of someone who served.

Note: Some Utility companies have reduced rates for low-income individuals/families.

- Winter moratorium on shut-off of heating source from Nov. 15 to March 15

- You may negotiate a payment plan if you are behind on your bill. If you make a plan be sure to stick with the agreement or shut off will be imminent.
- Continue to pay at least a percentage of your bill every month- even if you can't pay the whole bill. The utility company may see that as a good faith effort and may be less hasty to shut off service. It also avoids large bills at the end of the season.
